Webb zoning changed, property sold to Rebos

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Bay St. Louis City Council approved a zoning change for the historic old Webb School then agreed to sell it to the Rebos Club.

The council approved a Planning and Zoning Commission recommendation to rezone the property from I-1, light industrial, to R-2.

The council chose to rezone the property because neighbors were concerned that in the future it might be sold to a business that would not be compatible with the neighborhood's residential character, according to Mayor Victor Franciewicz.

"We wouldn't have sold it without the zoning change," Councilman-At-Large James Rutherford said.

An R-2 zoning allows for the existence of two family residences.

"We chose the R-2 zoning because the size of the building would be prohibitive for a single-family dwelling," Franciewicz said.

The Rebos Club is a private, non-profit organization that provides meeting places for various self-help groups.

The building, constructed in 1912, is on the National Registry of Historical Places and is listed as a Mississippi Historical Landmark by the Mississippi Department of History and Archives.

The city had been attempting to sell the property for on Third Street some time. Because of its deteriorated condition and restrictions due to its historical status, no takers were found until the Rebos Club expressed interest earlier this year.

As required by law, the sale price of the property, $34,000, was determined by averaging three appraisals.

At an earlier meeting, historical preservationist Peggy Gibbons contended that the building could not be sold because it had been granted to the city, in trust.

City Attorney John Scafide, however, said the sale was legal as long as the proceeds go to the city.

No one objected to the zoning change and sale at a public hearing, according to Franciewicz.

The tenth annual Bay St. Louis Beachfront Festival has been scheduled for Sunday, June 4 from noon until dusk along Beach Boulevard from State Street to the CSX Railroad tracks. Admission is $2 for persons age 13 to 60, and free to children and senior citizens.

The festival will feature more than 70 booths offering food, antiques, fine arts, crafts, flea market and special exhibits.

Among the latter will be the Quartlets of the 5th Company Battalion of the Washington Artillery, a Confederate Encampment sponsored by Southeast Louisiana Living History and Reenactment Association Inc.; the Harley Owners Group (HOGS) in a special arrival parade with more than 35 dress-bikes on view. The bikers

A special performance will be presented by the Musicum Consortium, and local cloggers will demonstrate their art on Main Street.

Special attractions for children include:

—The Warren and George ventriloquist team.

Cash door prizes totaling more than $200 will be given away during the day. Festival celebrants are asked not to bring ice chests. And the association issues a reminder that glass containers are forbidden on the beachfront by local law.

The festival site will be closed to traffic all day beginning at 9 a.m.

Dot Dartez and Nitaketchi

Indian

Dartez said the man stated that the Indian "had caused him a lot of trouble" and said, "Someday I'll tell you the whole story."

"The kid wouldn't open his mouth," she added, "and since the man wouldn't tell me even his name, we'll never know the story. The Indian's certainly not going to tell us."

The statue was not damaged while it was gone and appears to have been carefully kept somewhere indoors because it was clean when returned, she added.

Instead of posting the cigar-holding Indian outside the shop, Dartez will let him continue to stand sentry over Main Street from a window in her shop.

What has amazed her most, she said, was the amount of interest the theft and the return of Chief Nitaketchi has caused. She had a number of telephone callers and visitors Friday as word of the return passed through downtown Bay St. Louis.

"I knew the community had been interested in him, but I really never expected this much interest. Everybody has been so nice," Dartez said.

The next meeting of the Pass Christian Art Association will be at the Pass Christian Public Library at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 3. Guest speaker will be Tim Trapolin, well-established artist from New Orleans and former art teacher at McGehee's Girls School.

Members or members-to-be are asked to bring a painting for the Summer show, which will last through the entire month of June during library hours, closing on June 20, pickup on Saturday morning, July 1.

All work must be dry, framed and ready for hanging; only original work accepted. Several purchase prizes are available.

The Plantation Restaurant of Pass Christian is offering a lunch for two as a prize for the best logo submitted for their business.

The June show will open with a reception between 3 and 5 p.m. Sunday, June 4.

Memorial Day 1989—
Reflect on the courage that ensures freedomBY REP. G. V. (SONNY) MONTGOMERY
CHAIRMAN, VETERANS AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Times Square in New York City is jammed. The crowd is jubilant. Victory is ours. Our boys are coming home. The spirit of the moment in the summer of 1945, the spirit of the country, is captured for posterity in a photograph which appears in LIFE Magazine.

A sailor and a young woman kissing. Simple as it sounds, that picture sticks with those of us who saw it. The country was elated. We vowed to always remember not only what had been won but what had been lost in the winning.

Still, we're only human. The brilliance of patriotism from that and other similar moments fades from time to time, particularly between conflicts. The significance of the heroism and hardships, the valor and sacrifices, sometimes becomes remote. And we forget the protectors. Millions of people today don't have the slightest notion of what our veterans did to deserve our nation's respect and gratitude.

It has been 14 years since the fall of Saigon, almost 36 years since the cease fire was agreed to in Korea, more than 43 years since the end of World War II and 71 years since World War I.

The further we leave war behind, the more our memories of those who fought them are shadowed. But we must not allow the significance of their deeds to pale against the backdrop of time and apathy.

We—each and every American—are charged with a most serious responsibility...to impress upon this and coming generations the toll exacted by the preservation of their liberties and to instill in them an understanding of their heritage, of what it means to be called "American."

Those who answered a call to arms did so not to conquer and control other people nor to annex their lands. They did not seek glory. That is not what the struggle has been about.

They marched behind the most resplendent banner, the most glorious cause...Freedom. And not only America's. That is what our children must be taught. And they must be made to understand that the task lies unfinished.

What has been secured with the lives of hundreds of thousands and the blood of millions is fragile, and the surest way to lose it is to forget or ignore its true architects.

That is why we set aside special days and observances...to rearrange priorities that might have been shuffled, to reaffirm our determination as a free citizenry, and to remember those upon whose shoulders the burden of our struggles has been heaviest.

We honor those who braved the bitter storms of war and those who fell as they advanced against the winds of aggression and tyranny. The fallen are still with us. They hover in our collective memory and live in each right we enjoy. To forget their sacrifices is to render their legacy to so much earth and ash.

Remember the scared teenager who boarded a ship after a few weeks of military training and faced up to the most savage artillery bombardment the enemy could pour on him.

Remember the seasoned soldier, his platoon strafed by aircraft. Remember the gunner locked in a ball turret, 20,000 feet between him and the ground. Remember the prisoner of war, subjected to inconceivable inhumanities.

Remember the store clerk, the farmer and the professional. Remember the ordinary citizens who left an extraordinary gift. Remember that when they were through, there was peace. And yes, remember the rows of flag-draped coffins and those who never returned. Through their deeds, Freedom continues to grow stronger.

Memorial Day 1989. It is not a time of sorrow, but more appropriately a time to reflect...a time to thank God that we live in a country that produces a spirit, a pride, a level of courage that would have an individual lay down his life in defense of his country and what he knows is right. We will remember and honor those 1.1 million who have done so. Forty-seven Navy crewmen now join this venerable legion.

There is an inscription on a war memorial in Arlington National Cemetery that reads: "Not for fame or reward, not for place or for rank, not lured by ambition or goaded by necessity, but in simple obedience to duty as they understood it." We, the survivors, have a duty as well. To teach the children. To shirk this responsibility would be to surrender their heritage to the wind and to relinquish their future to perilous uncertainty.

I urge all Americans to participate in the nationwide Memorial Day observance on May 29. Let us resolve that our children will always be able to say, "I know why I'm free, and I know who gave me Freedom."

"QUOTEABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Tomorrow we celebrate Memorial Day.

This is a day set aside to remember those who served our country in the great wars.

One must realize there are many people around today who are really too young to even remember Vietnam, much less Korea or World War II. There are only a handful when you consider World War I.

There may be some who would say Vietnam or Korea were not wars, yet many Americans lost their life in the conflicts.

I feel that all of us as Americans should on Tuesday attend a Memorial Service, or at least pause a few minutes to remember all Americans who helped defend our country during wars as well as peace time.

In Bay St. Louis and Waveland, the American Legion posts will both conduct Memorial Day Services.

A special ceremony will be held at 10 a.m. at the gravesite of Clement R. Bontemps, St. Mary's Cemetery, Necessaire Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

This will be followed by a service at the Memorial at Post 139's home on Green Meadow Road, dedicated to the natives of Hancock County killed in the wars defending our nation.

A Memorial Day Service will also be held at 11 a.m. at the Waveland American Legion Post at 11 a.m.

The public is invited to the special services. Refreshments are to follow the services.

I plan on attending and I hope you do too.

Next Sunday at 1 p.m. there will be a Fifth Annual Turkey Shoot to benefit the V.A. Hospital and the future Humane Society Animal Shelter.

The event will be held in Ansley at Ladner's Friendly Inn and there will be plenty of food and fun for everyone.

The benefit is being sponsored by the Non-Commissioner Officers Association and the Hancock County Humane Society.

It sounds like this too, will be a big event.

While on the subject of big events, the St. Clare's Annual Seafood Festival continues through today on the church's grounds in Waveland.

I visited the festival on Friday night and everyone appeared to be having a very good time.

I enjoyed some good seafood along with hundreds of others.

If you haven't visited the festival, your last chance is today.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reader urges residents to write Congressmen to protest plant closure

To the Editor,

Admittedly, my first concern is for the well-being of my own family. I have heard and read about stories of families suffering from a chain reaction of misfortune set off by the sudden loss of the primary or sole income.

First, there is the worry, the stresses that reach even to the private lives of the children who do not entirely understand what's going on but they know it's something; they know something coming, something called cutting back, and they know from the way their parents have changed that it's something bad.

I have heard vivid descriptions of the arguments, the trauma of repossessions, of welfare income and welfare food. I have seen documentary scenes of families living in cars or tents and always there is only one adult because sudden poverty breeds division. The narrator articulates a story of how, two years before, this was a complete, happy, middle class family and then the adult chokes back tears as he or she explains how the world shattered and how; if it could happen to them, it could happen to anybody.

Seeing this a year ago, I would have thought, "how sad," but I would have pushed an arrow button on the remote and the children would have stopped me at something less real—Kate and Allie, perhaps, or Circus of the Stars.

The United States Army has announced its intention to force a plant closure beginning next year.

There are at least 2,000 plus families "directly employed" at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant. Through the plant's sub-contracts for services and materials available through our local businesses, hundreds more are "indirectly employed" by the MSAAP facility. This combination of direct (plus) indirect makes the plant a very significant and positive force in our community.

Every member of those 2,000 families who can write, needs to do so...now! A clear and loud protest must be heard in Washington as support to our Senate and Congressional leaders committed to a reversal of the Pentagon's decision. Every true friend and every relative of those families should write...now! Civic and business leaders need to write. Officers of fraternal organizations and community clubs need to write...now!

On behalf of thousands of our neighbors, we must express clear and unified displeasure that individuals in the Pentagon are preparing to abandon these families and the state-of-the-art manufacturing technology that recently achieved recognition as Mississippi High Tech Business of the Year.

Addressed to Senators Lott and Cochran and Members of Congress Smith, Tate, Montgomery and Whitten are listed below.

Your letters are crucial investments in your neighbors and in the social and economic well-being of your community and all of South Mississippi. Please, do it now.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor Ray Mabus

Foreign visitors to state will be looking to do business

A wave of foreign visitors will come to Mississippi this year but they won't be here to go sightseeing: they're looking to do business in Mississippi.

I just returned from a Far East trade mission with Mississippi business people and officials from the Department of Economic Development.

We visited Korea, Taiwan, China and Japan—and the preliminary numbers are encouraging:

* 10 foreign companies plan to visit Mississippi in the near future.

* 21 companies anticipate business trips here.

* The Chinese plan two trade missions to Mississippi, one in this summer and one in the fall.

* Mississippi companies signed two contracts while overseas in excess of $11 million.

* The Mississippi delegation visited more than 75 private businesses and 13 governmental organizations.

We covered a lot of ground on this trip, and it appears to be paying off in increased interest in Mississippi as a place to do business. The fact that these businesses will visit Mississippi is proof positive that they are interested in what our state and our people have to offer.

The trip was particularly successful because we used a team concept.

The Mississippi delegation split up at times to multiply the number of business stops and capitalize on individuals' areas of expertise.

The greatest areas of opportunity for trading Mississippi goods seem to be in the areas of forestry products, chemicals and plastics, metal working, automotive parts and food products.

There also appears to be a lot of interest in Mississippi as a place to vacation.

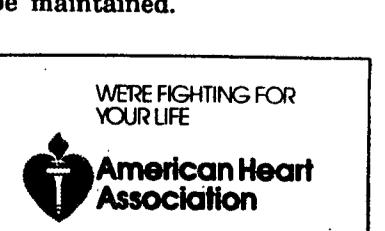

One of the keys to success on this trip was the participation of Mississippi business people. State government helps open the door so that Mississippi businesses can deal more effectively with foreign businesses and governments.

The final result will be more jobs and income for Mississippians.

Foreign trade is a tough business, and the competition is aggressive. But we have learned that there is a marketplace for Mississippi goods overseas. The trick is to find out where the demand is, and tap it.

We are doing just that.

Most of all, Mississippi must sustain this effort. Productive, long-lasting trade partnerships are not built overnight. And, like a good building, they must be maintained.

1989 Progress Edition is finally published

Today the 1989 Sea Coast Echo Progress Edition is being distributed.

The edition talks about the good things of the past year, the businesses that have opened or continued, civic club projects and other such things.

It's full of the community's good news.

I worked on last year's edition and I can say from working on this year's that things in general seem to have improved.

There are a lot of people who enjoy watching the community's progress and so do I, but most of the time I measure progress on a more personal level. I'd be willing to bet that many folks think the same way, in a sort of "household" manner.

I'm the kind of person who feels it's progress when the cat doesn't miss the litterbox and when he stops ripping open the catfood bag in search of a mid-day snack.

It's progress when my 10-year-old car goes more than six months without an emergency visit to the shop.

Progress is when my husband, and not my dog, learns to pick up his towels instead of leaving them on the bathroom floor, or when the dogs learn not to pick up the socks Joe leaves around.

That is the kind of progress I began to see from time to time this past year. It is not permanent yet.

Some types of domestic progress are considerably more tangible. Moving from an apartment complex into a house with a yard is progress, as is buying a washing machine because you are finally living in a place with washer hook-ups.

Progress is moving into a place where the toilet doesn't already have rust stains and there are no funny marks on the kitchen ceiling from other people's cooking accidents.

People with kids are surrounded by progress. Ask the next one you meet in a shoe store, where he is probably buying his second pair of tennis shoes this year because the kid's feet have made faster progress than the rest of him.

People who have gardens are surrounded by progress too. They plant their seeds or bedding plants, watch their flowers bloom or their vegetables grow, and harvest their crops. Sometimes, when I plant the wrong thing for this climate, I see real progress in the wilt-and-brown-leaves department.

People who participate in sports, both the competitive kind and the kind where the athlete competes only with himself, monitor their own progress either by recording information like running times or batting averages, or they just know they're making progress because what they're doing becomes easier.

Women on diets make progress, if they're successful. They either lose a few pounds or they don't gain any. For most of them, it's progress if they have the fruit cup instead of the ice cream.

I like shopping, so, to me, progress means going into a store and coming out with only the items I intended to buy and not one other thing.

Another sign of personal progress is being able to look at a calendar at the end of the month and know I've gone an entire 30 days without scheduling two things in the same time slot.

Progress is actually reading all my school assignments and making an A instead of getting a B.

At the office, progress means knowing exactly who to contact on what story and having enough stuff lined up for Page 1 at least two days ahead of time. Real progress means people call me because they know I'm interested in what they've got to say.

At the end of a Progress Edition, though, I've had enough progress. I have been writing stories from the forms our participants sent in for a couple of weeks now and I've think I've covered aardvark farming to zipper manufacturing, if those things are done in Hancock County.

These editions are major projects and what I'd like to do is go home and soak both hands in cold water, not touching a keyboard again until at least tomorrow. Now, that would be a kind of progress I can handle.

Dr. Raisani was one of the moderators at the special April meeting which featured separate sessions for MS patients and for their family members. This month, Dr. Raisani will discuss common family concerns when a member has a chronic illness such as multiple sclerosis. The main goal of the afternoon will be to allow everyone to gain a deeper understanding of family interactions when a member has multiple sclerosis.

The meeting will conclude with a social get-together. For more information contact Dianne Butera, 388-7032; Pat Gillham, 388-6941 or Annette Lawrence (Pascagoula) 588-6303.

sumption of seafoods, that party is notified by the Red Cross.

The Red Cross supplies half of the nation's entire blood supply.

Representatives of the media agreed to try to inform the public of when and where community blood drawings would be held.

It was agreed the goal that should be set would be collection of at least as many units as are used in the two-county area.

The next community drawing in Hancock County will be on June 14 from 1 to 7 p.m. at the American Legion, Green Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis.

A special drawing will be held on June 16 at General Electric Plastics, Port Bienville Industrial Park in Ansley, Rutherford said.

The drawings in Hancock County are done by the American Red Cross.

"We had a good drawing just on Monday of this week at Bay Senior High, when 67 units were collected," Rutherford allowed.

Rutherford continued, "There is a need for more businesses, schools, industries, groups or organizations to participate in and promote blood drawings in our area."

Anyone with any questions about the local blood bank can contact Rutherford at 467-4244.

A healthy person can donate blood every 57th day Gaul said, and it would only take a few more contributors for Hancock and Harrison Counties to collect as many units as are used.

The American Red Cross Blood Services can be contacted by telephone in Biloxi at 896-6749 or Mobile at (205) 438-2571.

Bay man sentenced in bomb possession

As part of a joint state and federal plea bargain, Joe Lupo of Bay St. Louis was sentenced to three years in a federal penitentiary after pleading guilty to possession of a firebomb.

The sentencing arose out of a 1987 case in which the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Ansley was burglarized and burned to destroy evidence.

The sentencing took place at a hearing in Biloxi Wednesday before U.S. District Judge Walter Gex III.

Federal authorities recently returned Lupo to the United States from Uruguay where he was found after jumping bond.

He is scheduled to appear in Hancock County Circuit Court on state charges stemming from the 1987 case.

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

You're my life's investment

It is said that a house is the biggest investment which most people will make during the course of their lives. That has to be pretty accurate, given the fact that most people cannot afford investments bigger than a house, yet feel compelled to scrape up the funds for buying a house, even if it takes many years.

In raw terms of monetary cost, no one can quibble with that fact nor with the arithmetic involved.

Still, in terms of true investment, apart from dollars and cents, a house or any other much more expensive investment pales by comparison with the investments which we make in one another as human beings.

We invest our monies, properties, energies and time in material things. Those who are materialistic invest even their very selves in things of every kind, rather than in people. Some day, they will be hit by the too-late syndrome, realizing too late and with deepest regret that only people are worthy of investment.

Let me serve notice that material things mean little to me; in fact, no more than means to the real ends in life: people and God.

You are my life's investment. Compared to what I have invested in you, I have invested very little in clothes, in a car, in a house, in luxuries or in my job. If any of those investments goes bust, it will mean nothing more than a bit of inconvenience to me.

LOCAL BRIEF

BAPTIST WOMEN'S DAY
First Missionary Baptist Church, Sycamore and Third Streets, Bay St. Louis, is having its Annual Women's Day Program today at 11 a.m. and again at 2:30 p.m.

Guest speaker for the morning program will be Helen Moore of Diamondhead. At the afternoon session, Thelma Jordan of Gulfport, district president of missions, will be featured.

The theme for this year's program is 'Women of Good Works'.

MILITARY MENTIONS

SGT MCLEAN
Army Staff Sgt. Christopher A. McLean, son of Oliver and Sarah M. McLean of Gulfport, has been named drill sergeant of the cycle.

McLean is a drill sergeant with the 54th Infantry at Fort Benning, Ga.

The selection was based on the individual's exemplary duty performance, job knowledge, leadership qualities, significant self-improvement and other accomplishments.

His wife, Luella, is the daughter of Eugene Riley of Gulfport and Rosemary Palode of Pass Christian.

PFC ADAMS
Marine Pfc. Michael A. Adams, son of Carl J. and Toni E. Adams of Bay St. Louis, recently completed the U.S. Army Airborne Course.

During the three-week course at the Army Infantry Training School, Fort Benning, Ga., Adams underwent rigorous physical fitness training, intensive parachute technique exercise and two drops from a 250-foot training tower.

In his final week, he made five static-line parachute jumps from an Army or Air Force transport plane.

Upon completion of the course, Adams was authorized to wear the Basic Parachutist insignia. He joined the Marine Corps in April 1988.

However, should my investment in you go sour, the very bottom will seem to fall out of life. Sure, other investments I do indeed have in other people, and some of those investments are of great moment. Nevertheless, my investment in you is special and, therefore, has its own special value and implications.

You are my life's investment, because I have no doubt that God sent you special delivery into my life for me to invest in you.

Of all people, I am richly blessed in that God saw fit to send you into my life as a unique, singular, precious gift.

Keep in mind that, while I may invest a few monies, a little time and a bit of sweat in material ventures, I invest these in you as well. Yet more, in you I invest my very self, my own person, my personality, the permanent values of my character, and, yes, even a deep sharing of my life as a spiritual being.

You are my life's investment so totally that I have tied in my present with yours, and I am forecasting my future, whatever it be, with the future which awaits you.

In short, I have cast my lot with you, so that your lot will be mine and mine will be yours at the present time and on into forever.

True, you cannot make me happy, just as no other person or thing can make me happy.

Nonetheless, you are integral to my happiness because I have so much invested in you. While I must find happiness within myself, I find many of the ingredients and triggers of happiness in my close ties with you.

You are my life's investment, because you are my special theophany here on earth, God's own expression through you to me. After Jesus, you are my closest connection with God in this life, giving me a glimpse of God and a foretaste of paradise itself.

Material investments fall short in our relationship of wife, husband, mother, father, daughter, son, sibling, relative and friend. My investment in you is unconditional, complete, permanent; in short, indefinitely beyond the reach of any material investment.

You are my life's investment. Admittedly, I have investments in other people, from neighbors to strangers, but in you I have my deepest, God-given investment of life and love.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

It seems that just about everyone around is planning to eat outdoors this long weekend—if they're not planning to barbecue or grill some of the special buys at local supermarkets, they're picking up some of the 'specials' in the deli department of the markets for easy livin' on into this week.

It's 'kid heaven' in the stores just now, with hot dogs and buns and ground meat for burgers, along with 'all the fixins' just waiting to be picked up and enjoyed.

You might want to get some hot dogs or turkey franks at Winn-Dixie, or Jumbo franks at Jitney Jungle, for instance.

And, for a special appetizer that disappears swiftly after its slow-cooking, try:

BACON-SUGAR-DOGS
1 1/2 packs hot dogs, cut in thirds or quarters
1 lb. bacon
1 lb. brown sugar
Wrap a strip of bacon around each frankfurter section, and layer in a crock pot with the brown sugar, then cook slowly for about three hours. Serve with toothpicks for dipping—delicious! The bacon and sugar melt into a tasty sauce as it all cooks together.

This may also be cooked slowly in the oven, or atop the stove, in a heavy, covered deep skillet or pot.

—Ellen Breath, Bay St. Louis

It's onions and more onions this week also, with specials all around. Here's a way to use those extra-tasty Vidalia onions from Delchamps.

MARINATED ONIONS

2 cups water
2 Tblsp. sugar
3 cups white vinegar
3 or 4 Vidalia onions, thin-sliced and separated into rings
1/2 cup mayonnaise, preferably homemade
1 tsp. celery seed
Freshly ground pepper
Salt

This takes just about 10 minutes to prepare, but you do have to chill it overnight, so start ahead of time. Heat the sugar, water and vinegar in a medium saucepan till sugar is dissolved, then cool. Soak the onions, covered, in this marinade overnight. Drain well.

In a medium bowl, mix the mayonnaise, celery seed, pepper and salt to taste. Stir onions into this mixture, and serve. (Six servings)

These are delicious with cold roast beef or barbecued chicken, especially. You may use other white or red onions. Encore Cookbook, Jr. League of Nashville, Tenn.

With the variety of smoked sausage on special at National you are sure to find one to your own taste—and cook up, for example:

SAUSAGES AND PEPPERS
This dish is ABC-easy. Using a pound of smoked sausage per person, slice the sausage, and also slice enough red and green peppers as you wish, or think you need. I like to pre-cook the sausage a bit in a little water in a heavy skillet. At any rate, place the sliced sausages in a skillet, along with a couple of peeled cloves of garlic—on toothpicks, if you please, for later easy removal—and a little parsley, oregano and chunks of celery. Cover and cook for a half hour or so, slow to medium fire, adding a bit of water if needed, reducing the juices if needed.

Here a chicken, there a chicken, everywhere a chicken! Winn-Dixie offers your choice of breast or leg quarters or drumsticks on special, and Jitney Jungle offers breast and leg quarters, also. Delchamps highlights drumsticks, and National follows through with breast and leg quarters.

As I've said before, when chicken is your choice for the barbecue, I think it best to broil or bake it a bit ahead of time to be sure that it cooks thoroughly all the way to the bone!

With the variety of fresh salad greens and vegetables on hand at area markets, mix up a big bowl of salad, with a creamy or oil-and-vinegar dressing, as you choose.

Desserts these days around my house are mostly fresh fruit—and I like fruit—various fruits such as strawberries, melons, grapes, apples and such, mixed together, with no further embellishment, just the natural goodness of the fruit.

At other times, I like to shower the fruit over a bowl of ice cream or a piece of sponge or pound cake. And, just awhile ago, I devoured a heaping bowl of peaches. Delchamps has just gotten in their first of the season peaches, and Jitney Jungle has watermelon and cantaloupe on special—oh, how good all the fruits are, fresher than fresh!

Boiled shrimp, vegetables perfect for outdoor feast

Thanksgiving in June! It is in southern Louisiana.

Late May and early June the Gulf shrimp harvest comes in and backyard all-you-can-eat shrimp boils in the bayou begin. And, while most of the rest of us probably have never ushered the new year's crop of shrimp with a party, it certainly seems as sensible as a chitlins festival.

Besides there are plenty of graduations, weddings, family reunions and house-warmings during the summer to get more than your fill of the traditional grilled hamburgers, steak or chicken. So why not treat your family and friends to a little Southern Louisiana style social?

Now in Louisiana, there are crab boils, crawfish boils and shrimp boils, but if you are really fortunate, you'll get invited to a great combination of all three. But regardless of what's in hot water, a good time is had by all.

A successful boil should begin around mid-afternoon and will probably last three or four hours. Dress is casual and the pace is leisurely, except of course for the eating part. There should be plenty to drink, as no one will volunteer to run to the store after the cooking's started.

First the seafood is washed, preferably in a galvanized washtub. Then a large, and we mean large, pot is filled one-third full of water. Seasonings are added and the mixture is brought to a boil.

Now just in case you're wondering, most folks in Louisiana have their own equipment such as a butane burner and a 60-gallon pot. But the shrimp taste just as good when you make do with what you have or get real fancy and rent the necessities.

Various combinations of vegetables such as onions, potatoes, carrots, corn on the cob, garlic, and even lemons and oranges are added to the pot. When they are done, the stars of the show (the shrimp) dive in and the real fun begins.

When ready, the steaming seafood and vegetables are poured onto a picnic table covered with newspaper. Then it's survival of the hungriest.

So the next time the backyard calls and the relatives are coming over, treat them to a Southern Louisiana style shrimp-boiling social and leave the hamburger in the freezer.

The recipes that follow use Zatarain's crawfish, shrimp and crab boil as seasoning for the shrimp boil. In either dry or liquid form, Zatarain's shrimp and crab boil conveniently provides the right amount of ingredients such as mustard seed, coriander seed, cayenne pepper, by leaves, dill seed, allspice and cloves.

BOILED SHRIMP FEAST
2 quarts water
1/2 cup salt
2 tablespoons hot sauce

1 bag Zatarain's Dry Crab Boil Spice
1 tablespoon Zatarain's Liquid Crab Boil

1 tablespoon Zatarain's Creole Seasoning

1 tablespoon cayenne pepper
1 lemon, halved
1 medium onion, quartered
1 pound small new potatoes

8 ears corn-on-the-cob
4 to 5 pounds headless shrimp in the shell

In heavy 2-gallon pot, combine all ingredients except potatoes, corn and shrimp. Bring to rolling boil; cook 5 minutes. Add potatoes, return to boil; cover and cook about 5 minutes. Add corn, return to boil; cover and cook 5 minutes. Add shrimp, return to boil; cover and cook 2 to 5 minutes, depending on size of shrimp. Add cooled water or ice to stop cooking. (See hint). Let stand 10 to 15 additional minutes. Drain, do not wash. Serve shrimp with cocktail sauce and vegetables with butter and Zatarain's Creole Seasoning.

HINTS

—For perfect shrimp, do not overcook.

Small shrimp (40 to 50 count) cook 4 to 5 minutes and allow to stand in hot water 4 to 5 minutes.

—When done, shell will separate from shrimp and form an air pocket on curved portion of shrimp.

—Adding ice or cold water causes shrimp to absorb the flavor of the cooking liquid.

If potatoes are large, half or quarter before cooking.

COCKTAIL SAUCE

1 cup catsup

1 tablespoon horseradish

1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

1 teaspoon lemon juice

1/2 teaspoon Zatarain's Creole Seasoning

Combine all ingredients and stir to blend thoroughly. Chill.

Hancock County Schools

On March 6, 1989, Hancock County Schools had groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Junior-Senior High School.

This event marked a gigantic step forward for the school system. The new school is composed of four buildings, each housing a specific primary area:

Building A: High School; Building B: Administration, Guidance, Media; Building C: Junior High; Building D: Commons Area, Athletics, Food Service, Vo-Tech and Music.

It is designed to accommodate future growth patterns up to 3,000 students. Upon completion next year, it will house 1,800-2,000 students in grades 7-12.

The Activities Building is designed to open its doors for public presentations as well as school. The Commons Area within the Activities Building will seat 1,000 people. This will prove to be a real asset for community and local business interests such as theater groups, banquets, conferences, etc.

Each of the educational buildings has separate math, computer and science labs. The library has a second floor mezzanine for specific media activities.

The site is designed to separate visitor, staff and teacher parking. Leading zones are designed to prevent congested traffic. A general purpose football practice/soccer field, football field, softball and baseball field will be available.

Natural wildlife areas are to be maintained to support the academic areas in biology and landscaping. A road surrounding the site is planned.

Kay Sones of Bayou Lacroix and Carol Bustetter from Diamondhead were sworn in as new board members December 1988, sharing the responsibilities with Frank Miller, president; Barbara Dedeaux and Lennette Necaise.

The Adopt-a-School Program in Hancock County is progressing smoothly. Our thanks and appreciation go to all the people who have made this a possibility. Sverdrup Technology Inc. is working with the Hancock North Central High School in a wide variety of applications and subjects.

Coast Electric, Ryan Marine and NORDA have adopted Gulfview. Pan Am and NASA have adopted Charles B. Murphy. Diamondhead Supermarket and Coca Cola are working with Hancock North Central Elementary.

GE Plastics has agreed to work with all Hancock County Schools as well as NORDA, Kmart, Wal-Mart, Diamondhead Dairy Queen, Pizza Hut and others.

The Chapter I Project in Hancock County Schools is the most advanced computer-assisted-instructional system in the state. Updates have just been made that include the use of graphics servers to enhance daily lessons. This allows children to see color, graphs, pictures as well as being able to call for tutoring help.

A variety of built-in CAI tools such as a ruler, calculator, compass and protractor are available for student use in the daily lessons. An average gain of a year or more is expected using this system with the educationally disadvantaged. Aside from the Chapter Program, Hancock County district uses computers with students in a wide variety of subject areas.

Voter Awareness Week found students actively involved in the process of running for election, listening to representatives from both parties, campaigning on their own and holding a mock election. Students also held a contest to see who could get the most people out to vote.

Other high school projects requiring energetic students and extra teacher effort was the Toys for Tots Drive which collected 3,000 toys for the Knights of Columbus to distribute at Christmas.

Drama class went to Hattiesburg to perform, and Joseph Bell was voted an all-star cast members. Participants for the first time in the Ole Miss Science and Humanities Symposium, exhibit at the Mississippi Museum of Art in Jackson, the Quiz Bowl at Jeff Davis College and other events are promoting Hancock County Schools in a most positive way.

Six exchange students attend HNC representing Japan, Sweden, Germany and Chile. Students have been involved in the community this year through the Beta Club's "Walk America" for the March of Dimes and "Jump Rope" for the Heart Association.

Improvements to school facilities boosted teacher and student moral at Charles B. Murphy when two new classrooms were added and other classrooms renovated.

At Gulfview, a new paved driveway provides a safe, convenient entry to the school and a new eight-room kindergarten building is also now in use.

Other improvements included the installation of new wall-mounted gas heaters in classrooms and Hancock North Central Elementary. New heaters were provided in gyms at all three schools. Plumbing was improved.

Four new buses were purchased, making 38 of the 46-bus fleet 1980 models or newer.

Hancock County Bass Masters

Hancock County Bass Masters members want kids to get hooked on fishing, not drugs!

The club includes members from Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pearlington and all parts of Hancock County, and has been established since 1985.

Its goal is to promote bass fishing as a sport and to recruit young bass fishermen. Membership includes two categories, boaters, for people who own boats; and non-boaters, for people who do not own boats.

Originally established by a small group of bass fishermen and now a charter member of the South Mississippi Association of Bass Clubs, the club fishes a monthly tournament and puts on a children's tournament once each year. The club also hosts an annual open tournament on the Pearl River with up to $2,000 in prize money.

Meetings are 7 p.m. the first Thursday of every month at American Legion Post 77 in Waveland. Boaters and non-boaters are paired in teams by drawing names from a hat, then fish together in the monthly tournament, which is the second Sunday after the monthly meeting.

Current officers for the club are Sid LeBlanc, president; Roger Mitchell, vice president; and Ronnie Farrell, secretary-treasurer.

More information is available at 467-3234 or 467-0540.

HANCOCK COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Hancock County Human Resources

The Hancock County Humane Resources Agency Senior Citizens Center in the old Valena C. Jones Building on Old Spanish Trail has been helping the elderly since 1972.

Services offered include information and referral, outreach (home visits) recreation, congregate meals, Meals on Wheels, transportation, informal counseling and assistance, contracted homemakers services, ombudsman, legal services and special parties and events.

Eve McDonald serves as director and Rosine Jushaway serves as program coordinator.

"We opened our office with one person and an empty office. Our task was to find the senior citizens in our county and ascertain their needs. Two more staff were added in April of that year and we went out into the county, discovering the greatest need was a central office where seniors could call to receive information, help and transportation to obtain assistance."

"We started as a model project for the state and grew immediately as needs were seen and attempts to meet them were made," they said.

"We started the first adult day care program in the region in 1973 and continued growing and serving our older citizens with more and improved services."

Additional services started in 1973, McDonald said, were the transportation system, meals program and contracts for homemakers and a visiting Hancock Women's Club, originally known as Welcome Wagon, has been helping the community in various ways since 1980.

The club supports charitable educational and sociological causes, including the making of contributions to charitable organizations and causes and community civic and service projects.

Some of the projects undertaken within the past year have included yard sales and raffles to raise money for these purposes. Donations were also made to various Hancock County and Mississippi organizations, including boys' and girls' ranches, Mississippi Special Olympics, individual Christmas gifts for needy children, a donation to the county fire marshal for a cascade system to refill firefighters' air tanks, a donation to the county sheriff for the purchase of bulletproof vests, and assistance to Red Cross, Salvation Army and Goodwill.

Contributions for the year reached a total of $1,587.

Membership is limited to 40 members, providing an atmosphere of friendliness, good will, and helpfulness toward each other and the community, said Marie Braselman, current president.

The limited membership also serves to increase the members' knowledge of the principles and functions of the local community and allows them to undertake the humanitarian and charitable projects which are the club's purpose.

In addition to Braselman, officers include Nathalie Miller, vice president; Theda Fisher, secretary; Joanne Casselberry, treasurer; and Lillian Harnett, Joyce Hasling, Marge Thomas and Marjorie Thompson, board members.

More information about the club can be obtained by writing to P.O. Box 1280, Bay St. Louis, MS 39521.

In addition, the society has opened an antique and knick-knack shop at 128 Court Street. Funds raised by the sale of the items benefits the society.

Current officers and committee chairs include Charles Gray, president; Meg Hilliker, first vice president; Ann Whiddon, second vice president; Patt Cuculli, secretary; Buddy Ohman, treasurer; Larry Heller, publicity; Ruth Thompson, membership; and Pat Wilson, historian.

Hancock County NAACP

The Hancock County Branch of National Association for Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has been serving local residents for 19 years.

Its current officers are Calvin R. Smith, president; Shakira Shabazz, secretary; and Clarence Harris, treasurer.

NAACP, a self-help group, was established Feb. 12, 1909 by Oswald G. Villard. The group, composed of black and white reformers called the Niagara Movement, met in New York City to renew the struggle for civil and political liberty. Its initial members included Jane Adams, Rabbi Stephen Wise, James H. Holmes, W.E.B. Dubois, Francis Grimké and Mississippian Ida Wells Barnett.

The purpose and aim of NAACP in Hancock County is to improve the political, educational, social and economic status of minority groups; to eliminate racial prejudice; to keep the public aware of the adverse effects of racial discrimination and to take all lawful action to secure its elimination, consistent with the constitution and bylaws of the association as directed by its national board.

The political action arm of the organization seeks to increase voter registration; to enact local, state and federal legislation to enhance the political, educational and economic status of minority groups; to repeal racially biased legislation and to improve the administration of justice.

More information on the local NAACP branch is available by calling 467-0470.

The BaySide Fire District has purchased much needed new equipment for the department, a department spokesman stated. The department has also, through a donation, has been given some land in Ansley to begin a new station to aid people in the Ansley-Heron Bay area.

Meetings are every second Thursday at 7 p.m. at BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department's station on West Hinds Street. District meetings follow immediately.

The public is invited to attend meetings and is asked to support the fire department's efforts.

The club also went back to political activity to support William Frisbie for Circuit Court judge in Hancock, Harrison and Stone counties.

Current officers include Carolyn Payne, president; Nell Frisbie, first vice president; Inez Gustafson, second vice president; Irene LeGros, secretary; and Claudia Snoden, treasurer.

Meetings are 11 a.m. on the first Thursday of each month, with locations alternating between Diamondhead and the Bay-Waveland area.

St. Augustine's Seminary

St. Augustine's Seminary, which moved to Bay St. Louis from Greenville in 1923, has served since 1920 as a training facility for Divine Word Missionaries.

Originally, the seminary was begun to offer young black men the opportunity to become priests and brothers. A minor seminary, a Brothers program and a major seminary have been phased out and now the seminary serves as novitiate for the Divine Word Missionaries in the U.S.

Young men spend one year of spiritual formation at St. Augustine's and become members of the Society of the Divine Word.

The seminary also operates a retreat center with guests coming from throughout the South and the entire country each year. The seminary is likewise the retirement residence of the Southern Province of the Society of the Divine Word.

There is a total community of 25 at St. Augustine.

An ongoing program is the beautification of the grounds and restoration of the grotto. This will continue along with the landscaping of the place where the former students' building existed and the restoration of the water fountain in the small pond on Ulman Avenue.

The Very Reverend William J. Kelley, SVD, serves as rector. Rev. James Pawlicki, SVD, director of communications for the Southern Province, serves as vice rector.

Also in residence at St. Augustine's is Fr. Anthony Bourges, SVD, the oldest black priest in the United States as well as the only survivor of the first ordination class of St. Augustine's in 1934.

The seminary also provides the community with a 9 a.m. Sunday mass in its chapel, which is so familiar to local residents that it does not have to be advertised.

The seminary office may be contacted at 467-6414.

John Adams

The name ADAMS has long been associated with flowers for 86 years on the Gulf Coast, so when people think of flowers, they just naturally think of ADAMS.

In 1902, John Bavin Adams, who was employed by the railroad, established a small nursery and flower business in Pass Christian. His passion and talent for raising and growing flowers soon brought on the desire to give up railroad and go into the flower business.

On August 27, 1916, Lena Lorraine Robinson married William F. Adams, Sr. (one of J.B. Adams' sons). They worked in the business until 1926, when they established their own flower shop and acquired the greenhouses started by his father. J.B. Adams and Sons Nursery became...

ADAMS' LORAIN FLOWER SHOP

The business has expanded. Bill and Lena Florence have shops in Gulfport and Biloxi. D. Howard and Nancy Adams have ADAMS' LORAIN FLOWER SHOPS, Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian, since 1948. They also have a wholesale division in Pass Christian.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Adams, Sr. have passed away. Now we have the fourth generation of ADAMS'. John Robin and Ginger Adams serve the many customers we are privileged to have along the Gulf Coast. They have both recently been certified as "Master Designers" by Florists' Transworld Delivery Association (FTD). In early March, a new store was opened known as Lorraine Flower Market, located in #1 Hancock Plaza in Gulfport. This European style store deals primarily with green plants and loose cut flowers. Great-grandfather J.B. Adams would be proud to know the legacy he started.

Sew 'N Sew

Beth Delcuze and Sandra Pownell, unhappy to see that the only local department store then selling sewing items was going out of business, decided to start their own shop.

The result was Sew 'N Sew, which has operated since May 1986 in Sheildsboro Square. "Our business started because T.G. & Y. went out of business," they said.

"Seamstresses in this area had to go to Slidell or Gulfport for a spool of thread or a zipper. Hancock County has responded to this need."

The store supplies fabrics, notions, Butterick and McCall patterns, sewing machine repair and various sewing and craft classes for all ages and levels.

Recent additions include a full line of notions and a new line of patterns.

In 1986, a $60 million expansion resulted in the addition of a Polyphenylene Ether Resins facility to broaden product offerings.

In mid-1988, the business was purchased by GE Plastics, which continues to operate the three SAN lines. Today plant employment includes 67 managerial, engineering, technical, operating and clerical employees.

The plant employs an additional 48 full-time employees through its maintenance contractor, Sunland Services.

Before all the whining and crying and bumping and jumping and slurping and burping...

there's beeping.

Yes, beeping! Because men all over town are wearing beepers that go off when their wives go into labor. That way, Dad knows when it's time to take Mom to the Slidell Memorial Regional Women's Center, to give Baby a truly beautiful beginning.

For couples in the Beautiful Beginnings program, Pop Phones are just the start. We also offer classes for siblings and parents to ready them for the new member of the family, because everybody needs coaching—mothers, fathers, and others. In class, everyone learns how to handle and feed babies, and how to do a little adjusting to make room in busy lives.

Beautiful Beginnings is a high-quality obstetrics program that provides all you need to keep tension to a minimum and the indescribable joy of birth to a maximum. All for a price that will let you start your child's college education fund on Day One. And that's really something to beep about.

Auto World

Auto World, one of Hancock County's leading automotive and truck parts and service centers, has grown during the past 14 years from a single auto parts store to today's one-stop, total car-care facility serving the citizens of both Hancock and Harrison counties.

The complex includes the area's newest 10-minute oil change and computerized tune-up facility, 'Performance Oil Change and Tune-up,' capable of accommodating four vehicles simultaneously. The lastest equipment and the finest premium oils and products are available to the motoring public when time and convenience are important. The facility became operational in October 1988.

The newest addition to Auto World is the recently opened Wholesale Battery Outlet at Auto World which offers to the general public batteries of all types at wholesale prices.

Six-volt, eight-volt and 12-volt batteries for trucks, cars, boats, industrial, commercial and recreational vehicles are available the The Battery Outlet at wholesale prices. The Battery Outlet is open every day for the public's convenience.

The anchor store at Auto World is the Bumper-To-Bumper Auto Parts & Supply Store. Originally established under the name of Bay-Waveland Auto Parts, its name was later changed to Bumper-To-Bumper at Auto World. Local ownership is the same now as it was 14 years ago.

The auto parts store is also open every day for customer convenience. A complete line of quality auto parts is available at today's competitive prices. Over-night delivery is available for specialty items. Several new services have been developed for the occasional do-it-yourselfer as well as for the professional mechanic.

The latest service of note is a unique free technical assistance Hot Line created by Bumper-To-Bumper for use by its customers. This service is available to both the novice and professional.

Located next to the auto parts store is The Muffler Shop at Auto World. The Muffler Shop was the first of its type established in the Bay-Waveland area and has been operating for more than 11 years.

Services range from basic muffler replacement to custom exhaust work. Trained personnel and up-to-date equipment are available to serve the motorist Monday through Saturday.

In addition to muffler and exhaust work, The Mechanic Shop at Auto World is open for your auto and truck repair needs. The Mechanic Shop specializes in brake work, however, can satisfy your other mechanical problems as well.

Mason particularly likes doing restoration-type work on fine, older homes.

Main Street United Methodist Church

Though far from being one of Mississippi's largest Methodist Churches, very few places of worship in the state have had as long and colorful a history as has Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis. It was one of the Coast area's earliest churches. Actually, reports show that the town was a preaching place as early as 1842.

The Main Street United Methodist Church was organized in 1852 in the town of Shieldsboro, now Bay St. Louis, by Mr. E. D. Pitts, a school teacher and local preacher.

Worship services were held in a small building at the corner of Main and Second Streets on property given by John V. Toulme for a church. Records also show that the church in 1859 was known as St. John's Methodist Church, rather than by the present name.

By 1871, Bay St. Louis was one of the four most prominent preaching places on the Coast, along with Biloxi, Handsboro and Pass Christian.

In 1895 the present church building was erected, and is now 94 years old. The church building is considered to be an outstanding example of Carpenter Gothic Architecture.

The glazing and installation of the original windows is of very fine quality and workmanship. The building was dedicated by Bishop Charles B. Galloway in 1897, the year a disastrous $75,000 fire destroyed about half the town.

The church building was not completed until near the turn of the century. In 1896 Bay St. Louis was worshipping for the second year in an incomplete building which had no windows or doors.

Records also show that in 1900 the new building was wired for electricity at a cost of $36. W. W. Cammach, pastor in 1902 was awarded $375 as salary for his service.

In 1936 a six-classroom annex was constructed at the rear of the present sanctuary; and in 1944 Mr. A. C. Exnicious gave to the church a plot of land adjoining the church building lot.

Five years later the church purchased from Mr. Exnicious a two-story building which was used for educational purposes. It will be of interest to some to learn that the front portion of the second floor of that building was the first house of worship for Methodists in Bay St. Louis, and it had originally stood on the site of the present church building.

This building was adjacent to the land given earlier, and with these additions, the church grounds cover nearly all of a small city block in the downtown area next to the County Courthouse.

In the 1950s the annex building was renovated and enlarged to contain a pastor's study, a kitchen, dining room, fellowship hall, and two dressing rooms.

On Dec. 7, 1952, the Centennial Anniversary was observed with an all-day celebration. Bishop Marvin Franklin came for the Centennial Anniversary as did some of the former pastors and members from out of town.

The parsonage was dedicated on May 1, 1967 by Bishop Edward Pendergrass. Rev. Lamar Martin and family were the first residents.

Sunday, May 2, 1971 the church celebrated Local Church Tradition Day under the leadership of Rev. Bernard Walton.

On Sept. 18, 1977, the congregation celebrated their 125th anniversary with the dedication of the new Education Building. Dr. Gilbert Oliver was pastor then.

Five lovely new memorial windows were installed and dedicated in 1982. They were designed and made by Milton Pounds of the Pounds Studio in New Orleans.

In 1983 a much-needed pastor's study was built between the Fellowship Hall and the Educational Building. Rev. Curtis Moffat was the first pastor to use the new study.

American Legion Post 139

Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 in Bay St. Louis has been around since 1920.

The post was originally chartered as Post 97 on May 14, 1920, but the charter was cancelled and the post became chartered as Post 139 on March 7, 1923. It was named for Clement R. Bontemps, a native of Bay St. Louis who was one of the first Americans killed in World War I.

The goals and principles of the American Legion are to assist the veteran and widows and orphans of veterans, as well as promote the general welfare of the community, state and nation.

One of the programs currently underway for young people is Boys' State, which is designed to provide young men of the community with an insight and introduction into government affairs.

The post selects a junior from each local high school and provides him with a week at the state capitol, where boys become active in government and actually set up a mock government of their own. The post has also had the honor of having a Boys' Nation president, former St. Stanislaus student Ted Perry.

The post also annually provides scholarships to local high school students planning to attend Pearl River Junior College or University of Southern Mississippi.

Another annual event is an oratorical contest, which provides students the experience of making a prepared oration on some phase of the U.S. Constitution. There are several awards involved in this competition, including scholarships.

For the younger children, the Legion sponsors an annual kids' fishing rodeo with special prizes for various sizes and weights of fish and crabs caught.

Post 139 also sponsors Little League, American Legion and Babe Ruth baseball teams, providing awards and banquets at the end of each season.

The American Legion School Award is made annually to the boy and girl graduate from local public and private schools who display the highest percentage of courage, honor, leadership, patriotism, scholastic attainment and service. They are awarded a large medal and a certificate.

North said Post 139 has also been active in Boy Scouts, offering facilities for meetings and funding for Explorers, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts. The post also provides them a bus for transportation and donated funds to establish a local scout camp.

Veterans' programs provide clothing, shelter and food for needy veterans and their dependents, as well as parties and picnics each month for patients at Veterans' Hospital in Gulfport.

On Memorial Day, the post holds a service at the gravesite of its namesake and at the monument by the legion home. An open house for the community follows the ceremony.

Post members observe Veterans' Day with a program and parade honoring veterans of all wars.

The post has also established the Hancock County Blood Bank and continues to support its efforts by allowing a place for blood drawings.

Other groups the post assists includes senior citizens, for whom an annual Christmas party and dinner is given; Special Olympics, which is given an annual donation of funds; and the Long Beach Retardation Center, which receives funds for an annual party.

Current officers include Henry Prevou, post commander; Richard Brehm, first vice commander; Jesse Burns, second vice commander; John Wilkerson, adjutant; Clayton Thompson, judge advocate; Andy Becker, finance officer; Roland Wohlschlegel, service officer; Arthur Leineweber Jr., chaplain; Robert Giveans, sergeant-at-arms; D.W. North, historian; and Russell Elliott and Retis King, color bearers.

Executive committee members include Horace Ruhr, Gilbert Gayaut, William Moran, Edward Binet and Ellis Cuevas.

Past trustees are John Rutherford, Edward Murtagh and Alvin Summy.

The post's executive meetings are the first Thursday of each month and its regular meetings are the second Thursday of each month.

North said Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 is one of the 10 largest posts in the state and is consistently a leader in all statewide legion programs.

Hancock County Lawmen's Association conducted 13 community projects.

The current officers include Albert Biehl, president; Kenny Hurt, vice president; Jody Pepperman, secretary; and Pauline Ruhr, treasurer.

The group meets on the third Monday of each month at First Precinct Restaurant.

Kilm Fire & Water Protection District

County Board of Supervisors in 1975, but it took many years of study and preparation to obtain the Farmers Home Administration grant and loan which enabled the district to construct its fire protection and water distribution system.

When the district finally secured a grant of $375,000 from the federal government in 1979, together with a $340,000 loan to construct the systems and purchase a modern fire truck, the project totalled $750,000.

The construction of the system and acquisition of the fire truck began that same year and was completed in 1980, with the system offering what is believed to be the cheapest water rates in the state and perhaps the nation.

The original minimum water bill was $6 in 1980, which was increased to $8 in 1987, but with the same basic rate per gallon.

The district presently has a study underway, being conducted through Gulf Regional Planning Commission and Garner Russell and Associates Engineers, to expand the water and fire protection system and consider the feasibility of a sewage collection system for the area.

The district is presently operating at capacity, serving 430 members, and hopes its current study will provide the information to facilitate expansion.

More information about the district is available by writing to Kilm Water and Fire Protection, P.O. Box 506, Kilm, MS 39556, or by calling 255-2595.

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre

A full season of productions is underway as well as needed repairs of the building and replacements of equipment.

Interim officers and board members include Ed Craig, president; John Holmes, vice president; Carroll Young, secretary; and Toni Handshoe, treasurer.

A first production, "The Odd Couple: The Female Version," has just completed its three-night run.

Dillman Roof & Metal Works

The late Eugene R. Dillmann founded Dillmann Roof and Metal Works more than 40 years ago and today it is the second oldest roofing contractor along the entire Gulf Coast.

He quickly gained a reputation of quality workmanship at a fair price, according to the present owner, Van A. Schultz. Dillmann's outstanding reputation soon spread along the Gulf Coast and expansion of the business began in 1952.

From a small base of operations in Waveland to a move to the present location on Washington Street in 1955, the business has continued to expand as the market expanded.

Additions to operations buildings and warehouses have been made in 14 of the last 20 years.

After Hurricane Camille in 1969, the business began to move into other roofing and sheet metal-related areas, such as roof deck insulation, waterproofing and general contracting. In addition, the territory it served expanded.

In 1971, Schultz joined the firm as vice president and director of operations. In 1973, Dillmann, Inc., was formed and in 1975, Dillmann retired and sold his share of the business to his daughter, Lydia Dillmann Schultz, and Van A. Schultz.

"A promise to carry on the tradition of quality work was made at that time and continues to this day," Schultz said.

Dillmann passed away in November of 1988.

Beginning in 1973, however, more equipment and personnel had been added to the business. Today, Dillmann, Inc., is the only state-licensed roofing and sheet metal contractor in the Hancock County area.

Areas served have been expanded to Slidell, Gulfport-Biloxi and Picayune. The Bay-Waveland and Pass Christian areas were also served more quickly and efficiently after the expansion with the addition of more personnel and equipment.

The company soon realized it was becoming difficult to keep up with the demand, maintain quality control and serve the community within which it had started, Schultz said, so a back-to-basics operation was established.

Trained foremen and mechanics were added. Training programs were instituted and new types of roofing systems were added. Continuous aluminum guttering was introduced to the area.

The company currently employs nine and at peak season employs more than 12.

Schultz said growth has remained steady in spite of a depressed construction economy in 1988. In that year, Dillmann, Inc., expanded into the single-ply roofing systems and is continuing to prove that it is one of the best roofing contractors on the entire Gulf Coast.

"With a commitment to quality and the belief that people still demand quality work, Dillmann will be here to serve that need," Schultz said.

The telephone number at Dillmann, Inc., is 467-6321.

Merchants Bank

Merchants Bank opened its doors to the first customer on Oct. 15, 1903 in Bay St. Louis.

The three original organizers of the bank were W. J. Gex, attorney; Charles G. Moreau, publisher of The Sea Coast Echo; and John Osolnach, prominent merchant. L. H. Fairchild was the bank's first president.

Four hundred shares of stock were sold at $50 per share to generate capital. At the close of business in Dec. 31, 1903, less than 90 days after opening, total resources were $33,000.

Today, principal officers are Guy C. Billups Jr., chairman of the board; William R. Allison, president; Alan O. Clark, executive vice president; and Richard G. Matheny, executive vice president.

The first branch bank, located on Coleman Avenue in Waveland, was opened in 1966. The bank then moved into Harrison County in 1968 opening a main office on 25th Avenue in Gulfport.

When Camille devastated the Coast in 1969, she left her mark on Merchants Bank. The Waveland Branch was destroyed leaving Bay St. Louis and Gulfport out of commission.

"We rebuilt bigger and better than ever, picked ourselves up and by 1970 had the new Hardy Court Branch opened," Billups said.

In 1972, merchants opened a branch on Jeff Davis Avenue in Long Beach. Returning to Hancock County, Merchants began rebuilding the branch that had been destroyed in Waveland by remodeling an existing building. Merchants opened this Waveland West Branch in Our Shopping Center in 1975.

As the growth on the Coast gravitated northward in 1979, Merchants Bank followed the progression opening the Harrison Central Branch on Dedeaux Road and Hwy. 49. Their first drive-in facility, the Auto Bank on 25th Avenue, opened in 1980.

Four years later in 1984, the Courthouse Road Branch opened giving customers the added service of banking from their automobile. The Bay St. Louis Hwy. 90 Branch opened its doors in May 1985. The older branch on Beach Boulevard became a paying and receiving branch with the opening of this full-service facility.

"Continuing our effort to service the Gulf Coast, we opened the full-service Biloxi Branch Oct. 2, 1987 located at Pass Road and Big Lake Road. This branch also offers our customers the added convenience of drive-through banking," the chairman added.

In 1987, Merchants added 'Golden Credit' to its list of services. This personal line of credit offers customers the opportunity to qualify for up to $5,000 with minimum monthly payments.

Completing its planned expansion for 1988, Merchants opened a West Long Beach Branch at Beatinle in Pineville Road in April 1988.

The latest addition to Merchants services is 'Golden 55', an account for valued customers 55 and older. 'Golden 55' is service charge free when a balance of $100 is maintained and offers these added features at no extra charge: Toll Free Reservation Service, Travel Cash Bonus Plan, Lost Key Service and Credit Card Registration.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

A Network of People and Power, Hearts and Minds.

Between towns, electric lines travel down quiet country roads, across plains, deserts and mountains, through the bayous — reaching far and wide to light up the homes, businesses, farms, schools and churches in rural America — connecting communities, one with another.

America's 1,000 consumer-owned rural electric systems make this network of reliable electric power possible.

Rural electric systems form another kind of network, just as vital. We connect the people of rural America in cooperation. Our consumers are our owners, and in good times — and times like these — we work hard to anticipate and meet their needs.

Because the co-ops help, there's a shoe factory in Forestburg, Texas. There's a special bus service in DuBois, Pennsylvania, package delivery to Glasgow, Montana. There's a newspaper published in Walters, Oklahoma, a health fair in Gibson County, Tennessee, and a college scholarship fund in New Mexico . . . all because the co-ops help.

Sometimes our help comes in a big way, more often in thousands of small ways. We create jobs. Sometimes we simply provide meeting rooms. We may start a crime watch program or provide means to check in on the elderly.

It's like this all across the land. It happens because we're there . . . working together with our neighbors to meet local needs.

A-1 Home Center

A-1 Home Center, Inc., at 804 Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis, has been serving the community since 1956.

The business features Radio Shack retail items and several services, including replacement of telephone batteries for cordless phones; repair of TVs and their components; and installation of TV antennas, car radios and speakers, cellular telephones and CBs.

Owners are Gabriel M. Fouasnon and Wanda M. Fouasnon, with the staff including sales clerks Tracey Higgins and Martha Stewart and installer Micael Fouasnon.

The business originally opened in July 1956 in a former service station on the corner of Washington Street and Beach Boulevard. At that time, A-1 Home Center mostly provided electronic repairs.

After the business added sale of TVs, the original location became too small and A-1 Home Center moved in 1965 to its present 3,000-square-foot building across from Merchants Banks' US-90 location.

Furniture and appliances became its products for a time, but about 14 years ago, the Radio Shack line was added and eventually it grew to become the main part of the business.

"Antenna material, telephones and accessories, and computers are the biggest portion of our business," the owners said. "About two years ago, we expanded our retail floor space and remodeled using the high-tech look Radio Shack is putting in their stores."

They invite customers to make comments and suggestions about their products and services. A-1 Home Center's telephone number is 467-9201.

Big E Seafood & Grocery

Big E Seafood and Grocery, 600 South Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis, sells fresh seafood, specializing in speckled trout, crawfish, crabs, shrimp and oysters. It operates the oldest sno-ball stand in Hancock County.

Owned and managed by Kelvin and Emily Schulz, the business is located in the old Star Theatre Building. The theatre was closed in 1983 due to competition from a four-plex cinema on Highway 90.

Big E began selling seafood when an employee said "If I was you, I would sell crawfish." The business now supplies boiled seafood nationally.

The business may be reached at 467-6501.

Coast Medical Arts Supply

Coast Medical Arts Supply, 940 Highway 90, Waveland, has been serving the community since 1984.

The business sells durable medical equipment, surgical instruments and supplies, and home health items. In addition, Coast Medical Arts Supply also provides teaching and training for recipients of medical supplies and equipment.

Also available is individual instruction for the operation of blood glucose monitors and equipment relevant to home health care.

Alan Clack is owner. Joni Clack is manager and Patrick Dillon works in sales.

Alan Clack, formerly with Kaiser Al & Chern, applied his expertise as a metallurgical engineer to the surgical instrument field in New Orleans, La. For several years, Bay St. Louis had been home and the drive to the big city became longer and longer.

Thus, moving the business to a quaint little cottage on Highway 90 in Waveland made the day longer and happier for Al Clack.

In 1963 the Port and Harbor Commission was established to promote economic development for the County. We have played a vital role in creating jobs and investment for the Community. These factors have and will continue to contribute to the future growth of Hancock County.

Our industrial parks, Stennis and Port Bienville, offer a wide variety of services that have made it very attractive to prospective new industry. SSC, located in Hancock County, has created hundreds of jobs over the last three decades.

To sum it up, "Hancock County is a great place to live and work."

PORt BIENVILLE INDUSTRIAL PARK

PORT & HARBOR

BRINGING JOBS TO HANCOCK COUNTY

By BUZ OLSEN-EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
HANCOCK COUNTY PORT & PARBOR COMMISSION

One of the main priorities of this office is to create new jobs with new industry and assist in retaining existing jobs created by the industries which are presently located here.

We must show that we are responsible to their needs. It is important to remember that a significant percentage of new jobs created in this day and time are created through the expansion of an existing industry. Therefore, we must be attentive to their needs and responsive to their problems.

In seeking new industry locations we must reflect a diversity of labor skills and a quality of life that will attract industry to our area. This can not be a single effort that is the total responsibility of the commission. It also must include the community as a whole.

This means forming a coalition of community leaders that reflects an upbeat image of the area. How we perceive our image is reflected in the leadership qualities of the community.

Our attitude towards encouraging a quality labor force, higher education, and community participation will be reflected by our actions and attitudes as seen by industry leaders.

Presently, Hancock County is on the threshold of a new era. The high tech industry has now entered the picture. We may attribute the credit to Stennis Space Center for this outgrowth of activity.

The factors for this development to happen are in place. What we need to do as developers is to concentrate on encouraging the continued expansion of high tech programs at Stennis Space Center and support the transfer of this technology to the private sector.

The factors for this development to happen are in place. What we need to do as developers is to concentrate on encouraging the continued expansion of high tech programs at Stennis Space Center and support the transfer of this technology to the private sector.

It has been noted in recent publications that a significant number of such enterprises has already expanded fast enough to become a major source of job creation in the nation.

However, if we are to attract and keep this high tech development in our area we must be prepared to provide a highly educated labor force and a locale offering a style of life that will keep them from wanting to leave.

The continuing role of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission will be to promote the economy of the county, attract industry and provide employment. However, to continue this role we will need the support and encouragement of the community, political and business leaders in our county.

IN TOUCH WITH THE WORLD

In recent years an influx of foreign investment has entered our country. As a result we find countries, such as Taiwan and Japan entering into Mississippi and finding a home. The Port and Harbor Commission will play a major role in soliciting foreign investment into our Country. We have recently had, from both the Republic of China and Japan, interest in acquisitions of existing companies and new starts. The range of industries are petro-chemical high tech...We are continuing a dialogue which we hope will reap some benefits for our Country in the very near future.

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home has a long history of service to Hancock County.

That history began with Capt. J.M. Tyler, who came to Bay St. Louis from Pickens to relocate his mercantile and undertaking establishment. His home was on Carroll Avenue and Second Street and he founded his company in 1895. Before his death in 1906, Tyler had made one of his trademarks the first horse-drawn funeral carriage in Hancock County.

F.J. Bandaret Sr. followed in 1906 and then in 1910 E.F. Fahey Sr. came in as a partner, operating Tyler's old business as Bandaret and Fahey Bros. until 1920. During the early 1900s Edmond Fahey Sr. and his wife Irma went together to families' homes to attend to the deceased; the wake services were also held in the homes.

In 1920, E.F. Fahey Jr. and his family took over operations of the Edmond Fahey Funeral Home and continued to run it until he died in 1950. His wife, Princess, recalls her years working in the family business, particularly during the war years because it was the only funeral home in Hancock County at the time.

She also remembers the 1947 hurricane as a particularly tragic time when there were 17 deaths and the Fahey family called in many family members and members of the community to help with the services.

During those years, the Faheys' associates included J.T. Jacobs, drivers John and Lou Monti, insurance and funeral assistant Woodroe LaFontaine and Marian Beal.

Kenneth R. Whitfield came to Bay St. Louis from Picayune in 1950 and for a time operated the business as Fahey-Whitfield Funeral Home.

Edmond Fahey III came into the business in 1976 as president of Edmond Fahey Funeral Home and still serves in that capacity. He has recently completed the new Gulf Coast Memorial Cemetery and Mausoleum, which features a beautiful outdoor chapel and paved walkways and streets, located amidst the serene wooded beauty of flowering trees, shrubs and lovely lawns. It is located on Longfellow Drive at the bay St. Louis-Waveland line.

The facility makes available the most complete funeral and cemetery arrangements on the Gulf Coast with mausoleum, ground burials, cremation services, niche spaces for cremation urns, funeral insurance and pre-need funeral planning. Information can be obtained by calling 467-9031 or 467-3314.

Gulf Oaks Hospital & Clinic

Since it opened in 1979, Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic has grown from a 10-bed chemical dependency unit housed in Gulf Coast Community Hospital to a private hospital dedicated to the treatment of adults and adolescents with chemical dependency and psychiatric problems.

The hospital opened as a free-standing facility on West Jackson Street in downtown Biloxi in 1985 and is now located at 180-C Debuys Road, offering adult psychiatric, adolescent psychiatric, geriatric-psychiatric and adult outpatient and inpatient chemical dependency programs.

The facility is owned by Safe-care Health Services of Seattle, Wash. Raymond Butler is administrator and Ann Bobinger serves as assistant administrator and director of nursing.

When it opened in 1985, Gulf Oaks offered only the adult psychiatric and chemical dependency services. Geriatric psychiatry was added in 1986 and in May 1988 psychiatric treatment for adolescents became the fourth inpatient program.

Recovery Resources, the outpatient chemical dependency clinic, opened in 1986 offering counseling for the chemically dependent individual, co-dependency, adult children of alcoholics and children of alcoholics.

Plans for the future include addition of a gymnasium, athletic field and partial institutionalization program for children and adolescents.

More information can be obtained by calling 388-0600.

Peterman's Lil Super Food Mart

At Peterman's Lil Super Food Mart, customers can also take advantage of the convenient coin laundry and package liquor store.

Fred and Pearl Peterman opened their store, located at 315 Coleman Ave., Waveland, in 1970. The business now supplies a complete line of groceries including boiled seafood-crabs, crawfish and shrimp--and a good selection of package liquuors and wines as well as a clean self-service laundry.

The Petermans came to Waveland from New Orleans and bought the grocery, then bought the building itself and added the laundry. The package liquor store came next. All of the expansions were in 1970 during the first year of ownership.

A more recent addition is the Sidewalk Sandwich Shoppe, specializing in po-boys, hamburgers and deli items.

In addition to serving the community for nearly 20 years, the Petermans helped organize the Coleman Avenue Improvement Association.

With the help of property owners and the city, county, state and federal governments, the future of Coleman Avenue looks Real good," Fred Peterman said.

The store telephone number is 467-7061.

The Frontier Lydia's Audubon Shoppe

The Frontier and Lydia's Audubon Shoppe, at 600 Highway 90 in Waveland, have been part of the community since 1985.

Lydia's has everything for the backyard bird enthusiast while The Frontier takes care of gardening, dog and cat needs, and horses and large animal supplies.

Also, caged bird supplies can be found there.

In 1985 when The Frontier came under the ownership of Van and Lydia Schultz, pet supplies were hard to find locally and the new owners decided to fill that need.

Gary Jackson manages The Frontier and keeps up with special orders for customers, entertaining them with his quips and quotes.

The Frontier provides seed, feed, farm and garden supplies but a shift in customer demand led to a change to more small animal supplies. Chicks and ducklings are also sold in the spring, along with large selections of plants and vegetable seeds. Bulk seeds are also available.

In the last year, The Frontier has added new lines of pet supplies, including Iams, Eukananaba and Science Diet for dogs and cats and Toppers for caged birds.

Lydia's continues to try to bring the latest in the birding field to the community, supplying information on bird activity in the area and more unusual items such as plants to attract hummingbirds; the latter have fast become a favorite because they are unusual, easy to grow and beautiful.

The Frontier's telephone number is 467-3655, while Lydia's can be reached at 467-BIRD.

Monti Electric Supply

In addition to the usual services offered by a business of its kind, Monti Electric Supply, Inc., has given the community a modern version of the town crier.

The business is located at 117 Highway 90 in Waveland, with a second store in Ocean Springs.

The Ocean Springs branch, with Bill Monti as manager, opened that same year; the two locations employ a total of 12 people.

"The spirit of the town crier lives on," Kathleen Monti said. "Birth and wedding announcements, messages, greetings and public service announcements are displayed daily on a first come, first served basis.

"Owner Joe Monti's moods and sense of humor are easily identifiable in the messages he displays to 'talk' to his friends and customers as they pass daily in front of the store."
